

Two Men Victims of Violent Death

Body of J. V. Hall of Mokena Who Vanished Wed. Found In Lake

The tragic disappearance and death of J. V. Hall, well known Mokena resident, came as a great shock to the community the past week.

Mr. Hall who was employed in the plant of the J. P. Smith Shoe Co., in Chicago for the past 25 years, went to his accustomed work last Wednesday morning. When he failed to arrive home that evening, Mrs. Hall went to the shoe factory Thursday morning. She was told that Mr. Hall had left the plant Wednesday noon saying he was through and was leaving but that nothing had been heard of him from then on.

A description of the missing man was given to the Chicago police and they immediately started a search for Mr. Hall, but without any success.

Monday morning a small item appeared in The Chicago Tribune relative to the South Chicago Coast Guard recovering the body of an unidentified man about 55 years old from Lake Michigan at 99th street on Sunday. Relatives and friends of Mr. Hall immediately investigated and identified the body of the unidentified man as that of Mr. Hall. Mrs. Hall established the identity of her husband by a tailor's label in his coat.

There being no proof as to the manner in which Mr. Hall came to his death, the coroner's jury returned an open verdict at the inquest on Monday morning.

When the clothes of Mr. Hall were searched $4.80 in cash was found, also a card, but the printing or writing on the face of the card had been washed out by the water, the body appearing to have been in the lake for several days.

Mr. Hall was born in Joliet, May 24, 1878 and was the son of Captain and Mrs. Lambert P. Hall. Captain Hall was connected with the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet for 33 years, rising in position from hall guard to Deputy Warden.

Mr. Hall learned his trade of shoe maker while associated with his father and later entered the employ of the J. P. Smith Shoe Co., in Chicago for whom he worked the past 25 years.

July 3, 1918 the departed was united in marriage with Miss Martha Lockwood of Oak Park where they resided a year and a half. To this union, one daughter was born.

He established his residence in Mokena on the former Tom McCarthy place a short distance north of Mokena on Wolf Road in 1919. He proved himself a citizen of sterling worth and was a man whom one could be proud to call 'A Friend'. He was just that in every true sense of the word. He was vitally interested in all matters affecting his community. He was a loyal and hard worker in the movement to have Wolf Road paved and was privileged to see his efforts bear fruit altho this important highway has not as yet been finished as far south as the road boosters hope to see it go.

He was always ready to help in any good cause and was always true to his convictions. He also was a true lover of the soil and of the great out of doors. He devoted much hard labor and effort in improving his property and a few years ago erected a filling station and lunch room which he operated thru the summer months.

He was a true friend and neighbor and was beloved by a host of loyal friends.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Martha Hall, one daughter Eleanor, three sisters, Mrs. H. J. McPartlin, Misses Dorothy and Jessie Hall, all of Chicago.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the late home at two o'clock with the Rev. Ralph G. Gray, pastor of the Mokena M. E. church officiating. Leon Tonn and Mrs. Byron Nelson sang. The pall bearers were: Two brothers-in-law, Hugh McPartlin, of Chicago and David Lockwood of New Lenox; a nephew, Charles McPartlin of Chicago, also a close friend, Al Kisch, of Chicago; two friends from Mokena, Lester Schiek and William Semmler.

Burial was in the St. John cemetery south of Mokena on Wolf Road.

VILLAGES TO BENEFIT BY THEIR SHARE OF STATE GAS TAX

A lengthy communication from the Illinois Department of Works and Buildings relative to the one per cent of the state gas tax apportioned to municipalities, was taken up by the Mokena village board at their meeting Tuesday night. The communication outlined the state and arterial highways which can be constructed in municipalities and what procedure will have to be pursued. All construction and improvement work in municipalities will be paid from the gas tax fund. The state is to begin paying this share of the gas tax to the municipalities starting January 1934. Amounts paid will be based on the population of the municipality. The amount due Mokena is said to be about $950.

NOTED CHICAGO PROF. WILL SPEAK AT ORLAND COM. CENTER SUNDAY

Professor Carl Hutchinson of the Chicago Theological Seminary will address the Sunday afternoon forum of the Community Center Foundation at Orland Park this Sunday, November 12th at 3 p. m. His topic will be "The Spirit of The American Folk School."

Prof. Hutchinson has had a wide experience in the study observation of the Folk School movement both here and abroad. He is on the staff of the Ashland Folk School at Grant, Michigan during the summer sessions. His talk will give some background to the proposed Folk School at the Orland Park Community Center.

The Folk School and experimental education movement is fast becoming a big factor in the new emphasis on education in the schools of the country. It is being recognized that it is necessary to educate boys and girls to meet the new problems that the world order imposes upon them. It is to meet this need that folk schools and experimental education has been developed.

All people who are interested in education and parents who have children in school cannot afford to miss this meeting and all are invited to attend.

DELINQUENT WATER USERS TO BE SHUT OFF

The Mokena village board at their meeting Tuesday evening decided to adopt strict measures to bring the water department out of the red. A check of the records showed some of the water users delinquent over a year and more. As the village is being obliged to pay a tax of two per cent to the state on all water sold to consumers, the board has ordered that the water supply of delinquent long past due water users be shut off this week.

Lawrence Burkhardt and Elfretta Young Are Married In Chicago

Miss Elfretta Young, daughter of George Young of Alpine and Lawrence Burkhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Burkhardt of Orland Park were quietly married in Chicago last Saturday. They will make their home with the groom's parents. Their many friends wish them much happiness.

Miss Elsie Hohenstein and Alvin Sippel United In Marriage Tuesday

On Tuesday evening, November 7th, a very pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sippel, when their son Alvin was united in marriage to Miss Elsie Hohenstein, daughter of Chris. Hohenstein of Mokena.

Promptly at 6 o'clock to the strains of Lohengrins Wedding March, played by Mrs. Henry Bechstein of Tinley Park, the bride, prettily attired in a gown of blue silk and carrying an arm bouquet of Chrysanthemums, was given in marriage by her father. Her attendants were Miss Edna Hohenstein in tile colored silk also carrying a bouquet of Chrysanthemums, and Harold Schults as best man.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Chas. Hedder of Tinley Park. Her sister Edna rendered a very pretty song, I Love You Truly, after which a sumptuous wedding dinner was served to about 25 guests. They have the best wishes of a very large host of friends.

Mokena Fire Department Called to Fight Farm Fire

The dwelling on the Tony Geiser farm southeast of Mokena caught fire Tuesday morning. The Mokena Fire Department was called and responded with their new truck which was the first out of town fire it was called to. The fire was quickly extinguished and only a nominal loss resulted.

St. Peter's Ladies Supper Big Success

The Ladies Aid of the St. Peter Evangelical church of Frankfort gave a very successful supper Thursday afternoon and evening in the church parlors. In the evening two plays were given.

Noted Joliet Singer

Thru the efforts of the talented choir director of the Orland Park M. E. church, Edward Wunderlich, the congregation was regaled with a rare musical and spiritual treat at the morning service last Sunday.

Dr. Hugo Mattei, prominent narpopathic physician of Joliet and one of the leading soloists of that city, was the guest artist. Dr. Mattei is the possessor of a pure Italian lyric tenor voice and his rendition of the two solo numbers "Ave Maria" by Schipio and "Blessed Redeemer" by Duna were gems of artistry and understanding. Dr. Mattei was accompanied at the piano by his beautiful and talented daughter, Miss Rosella Mattei. Whether it was thru inspiration from the distinguished guest or just because of the conscientious hard work of Director Wunderlich, the choir of the Orland M. E. church rose to the occasion and performed in a manner that left nothing to be desired.

FRANKFORT FATHERS SHOW FINE SPIRIT

One of the finest gathering of men held in Frankfort for a long time, was the Father and Son banquet sponsored by the Men's Endeavor Club of the Frankfort M. E. church Monday night of this week.

Fully over 150 men and boys attended the banquet and program held in the parlors of the church.

The Ladies Aid Society of this church served the banquet.

A fine spirit of comradeship, congeniality and enthusiasm marked the gathering.

Frank Kohlhausen was to have served as toastmaster, but being unable to be present, Mr. Wesley Hollstein substituted for him.

Wesley Hollstein served as toastmaster and he was witty and enjoyed putting some of the speakers in "hot water" by telling stories "on them." The speakers invariably got "even" with the toastmaster by telling one "on him."

A community sing was enjoyed following which a very fine program was presented. Addresses were made by Rev. C. F. Schellhase, Supervisor Wm. Bettenhausen, Christ A. Sangmeister, deputy sheriff, both of Green Garden, Judge John Clark, of Frankfort, Mr. Hill, principal of the Frankfort public school, Ray Warning, member of the Frankfort school board, Wm. Semmler, editor of the News-Bulletin.

A highly interesting address by a father was given by Mr. George Brandau. A few of the highlights of Mr. Brandau's talk were as follows: "After all we dads are grown up and matured boys. These boys are growing up fathers, mayhap. We as fathers are too prone to forget this and too often try to put a man's head on a boy's shoulders."

"Fatherhood is a serious job. No individual has ever attained perfection in it. It has its cares and joys, its disappointments and rewards. Whatever children have been entrusted to us are but canvasses upon which we help paint of what will probably follow. We as parents are most intimately connected with that picture, but the community also plays a part."

Mr. Reuben Sche'llhase, son of the pastor gave an address on behalf of the sons. His talk was based on the following 12 points and was exceedingly well delivered:

1. I would form habit of cheerful obedience.
2. I'd be a great lover of home.
3. I'd form habit of promptness.
4. I'd form habit of worthwhile industry.
5. I'd learn rules of economy.
6. I'd be strictly honest.
7. I'd not play with temptation.
8. I'd be studious in my habits.
9. I'd think the best thoughts.
10. I'd be close student of Jesus.
11. I'd be loyal member of a church.
12. I'd seek my father's advice.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Dr. L. L. Hammett, D. D., District Supt., of the Joliet-Dixon District.

There were musical numbers by the Sweeney Boys, group of songs by a male quartet consisting of Urban Schellhase, Lawrence Woodman, Wesley Hollstein, Reuben Schellhase, and Emil Woodman, the musical director sang several solos.

The gathering closed with "Blest Be The Tie" and benediction by Rev. C. F. Schellhase.

Cellaphane Situation

They've been wrapping everything in cellaphane, but things have come to a pretty pass when they start wrapping one of our most esteemed citizens in a cellaphane situation. They usually use cellaphane to keep things fresh, but it seems they're wrapping him because he was too fresh. We are wondering if the situation is so cellaphane. Can you see through it? Be your own judge at the auditorium of the St. Johns Evangelical Church, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, November 21 and 22, when Nelly Blys' Trial will be heard publicly.

NEWTON GINTHER NUPTIALS

The marriage of Miss Ruth Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Newton of Orland Park and Mr. Noble Gintner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gintner of West Salem, Ill., was solemnized Saturday, October 28, at 4 p. m., at the Community Center Foundation by Rev. Paul T. Sanders. Miss Mildred Rector and Mr. Andrew Burton were their attendants. The room was prettily decorated with oak leaves and pom-poms.

The bride wore a dark green velvet dress with a shoulder bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

A wedding supper was served at the bride's home after which a party of fifty from the community, came to charivari them and to spend the evening with the newly wed couple. They departed at 11 o'clock wishing Mr. and Mrs. Gintner much joy and happiness.

Geo. Mitchell, Struck And Killed By Fast Train at Frankfort

George Mitchell, aged 57 years, a resident of Frankfort township for 52 years, was instantly killed Wednesday afternoon at 2:14 o'clock when the truck of the Frankfort Grain Co., which he was driving was struck by a fast east bound Michigan Central freight train on the Route 51 crossing just east of the Michigan Central depot in Frankfort.

The accident was witnessed by Orville Schroeder of Frankfort and James Marti of Mokena.

Mr. Mitchell was driving the Frankfort Grain Co.'s truck south on the paved road and it is not known whether he did not hear or see the approaching train. The locomotive struck the truck back of the cab, hurling it on the right hand side of the right-of-way, completely demolishing it. The lifeless body of Mr. Mitchell was found close to the track. Apparently death was instant.

The impact tore the cowcatcher off the locomotive.

The crossing where the accident occurred is unprotected and several other accidents have occurred there within a year or so.

The coroner's office at Joliet was notified and the body was taken to the Zechlin undertaking rooms in Frankfort.

Henry Lühring, manager of the Frankfort Grain Company says the company has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of Mr. Mitchell. The latter had been in the employ of the Frankfort Grain Company for fifteen years. He had driven a truck for ten years and had never been in an accident. He was a true and faithful employee and beloved by all his associates and friends.

Mr. Mitchell was born in Scotland and at the age of 6 years came with his parents to Frankfort. They located on a farm near Frankfort.

About six years ago Mr. Mitchell's parents returned to Scotland where Mr. Mitchell's father died.

In 1917 he was united in marriage with Miss Blanche Populorum of Chicago. Surviving are his widow, one son Robert, one daughter Georgia, a brother and his mother living in Scotland.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the late home in Frankfort and then to the Frankfort M. E. church at 2 o'clock with Rev. C. E. Schellhase officiating. Burial in Pleasant Hill cemetery.

Wm. Martin Post And Auxiliary Hold Joint Installation

The members of Wm. Martin Post No. 725 V. F. W. of the U. S. of the Lincoln Estates, Frankfort, Illinois and the Ladies Auxiliary to William Martin Post celebrated their second installation of officers in their respective Posts at 3 p. m., November 5th at the Barn, in Lincoln Estates.

Comrade Carl Rosenbaum, Past Commander of Cantigny Post No. 367 of Joliet and State Chairman of the Department of Illinois, was the installing officer of the Post. Comrade Rosenbaum, after stating his authority to install the officers of the Post from the Department Commander, officially opened the meeting. Preceding the installation, however, he initiated a new member and obligated two honorary members into the Post. The honorary members were the prominent and well known lawyer Mr. Albert H. Krusemark of Frankfort and Dr. Adolph Fallor, Staff Physician of the German Deaconess Hospital of Chicago with residence in Chicago and has a beautiful summer residence in Lincoln Estates.

Following the initiation of these new members into the Post the ceremony of installing the new officers proceeded. The officers installed into office for the ensuing year were:

Comrade Henry Popp, Commander. Comrade Sylvester Tyler, Senior Vice-Commander. Comrade Floyd Slagle, Junior Vice-Commander.

Comrade William Lockwood, Officer of the Day.

Comrade Arthur C. Becker, Quartermaster.

Comrade John R. Jones, Chaplain.

Comrade Arthur C. Schiller, Adjutant, second term.

Comrade Henry M. Tyler, Quartermaster Sergeant.

Comrade Charles Modeen, Guard.

The meeting was then turned over to the Ladies Auxiliary for the installation of their officers. Mrs. Elsie Hinds, Past President of Cantigny Auxiliary No. 367 of Joliet and a

FRANKFORT MAN NAMED SECOND ASST. STATES' ATTORNEY

Appointment of Attorney Walter O. Herschbach, of Frankfort, who has been an associate of Attorney Irving Shuts, of Joliet, as an assistant state's attorney, has been announced by State's Attorney William K. McCabe.

The new assistant's position was authorized in the 1933 budget adopted by the county board yesterday.

Attorney Herschbach graduated from the University of Illinois law school in June. He was admitted to the bar last month at Springfield. The state's attorney's staff now will number two assistants, Herschbach and Charles Blim, and an investigator, Edward G. Powers. In asking the appropriation for an additional assistant, McCabe told the finance committee of the board that two assistants had been allowed former administrations, and that he believes the heavy schedule of court work faced by his office justified restoring the position of second assistant.

State Officer officiated as installing officer. The new officers installed in the Ladies Auxiliary, Wm. Martin Post No. 725 for the ensuing year were:

Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, Senior Vice-President; Mrs. Mildred Anderson, Junior Vice-President; Mrs. Lois Neidringhaus, Chaplain, second term; Mrs. Merle Hall, Mokena, Treasurer; Mrs. Jeanne Lockwood, Secretary, second term; Mrs. Elizabeth Walker, Guard; Mrs. Luella Tyler, Conductress; Past President, Mrs. Helen Popp, Trustee; Mrs. Agnes Hayden, of Mokena, Trustee.

After the installation ceremonies of the Ladies Auxiliary Mrs. Anna Becker of Lincoln Estates, member of the Auxiliary, presented the retiring President with a beautiful Past President's pin. Flowers were presented to both the retiring and the incoming presidents of the Auxiliary.

The Ladies Auxiliary also presented the retiring and the incoming Post Commanders with tokens of their esteem and best wishes.

George Duprez, eighty-eight, who served throughout the Civil war in the Tenth Ohio battery, died in Rock Island.

George E. Lessish, eighteen, was killed near Wilsonville when his shotgun was accidentally discharged while hunting.

When Charles Pinegar failed to return to his farm home near Canton for lunch a search was started and his body was found in a field.

Pleas Moore, sixty-eight, was convicted in Springfield of manslaughter for the shooting of Patrolman Ernest Purgatorio during a raid on his hotel room.

H. O. Klein of Springfield was elected president of the central Illinois district of the Walther league at a meeting in Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lee of New Berlin celebrated their sixty-ninth wedding anniversary, entertaining their 10 children.

Francis Hines, twenty-four, was kidnapped in the business section of Bloomington, taken into the country in an automobile and robbed. Hines returned on foot, minus his money, a wrist watch, and most of his clothes. Sober-minded members of the Progressive Miners union went back to their work in the Springfield region and the backbone of the mine holiday movement favored by radicals in the organization was apparently broken.

The Illinois Supreme court has ruled that the 15 per cent cut in 1931 Cook county assessment valuations on small homes, ordered by the board of tax appeals, is void. The court directed the board to expunge its order. About 43,000 pieces of property were embraced in the order of the appeals board.

William H. Boys, seventy-three, prominent member of the La Salle county bar, former banker, a member of the administration of Gov. Frank O. Lowden, died at his home in Streator after several months of ill health. A former mayor of Streator, he served as chairman of the railroad and warehouse commission, now the Illinois Commerce Commission, under Lowden.

When Mrs. Gail McElroy of Palmer discovered a pair of pink bloomers in her husband's hunting coat she hit him over the head with a poker as he slept. Then there were words and the deputies came. It was not until McElroy had spent a day in jail holding his throbbing head that Mrs. McElroy learned that Bart Edwards, McElroy's hunting companion, had slipped the boudoir hunting into McElroy's pocket as a joke.

James H. Stone of the Homestead hotel, Evanston, for many years a prominent figure in the shoe industry, and Mrs. Elizabeth C. Burnett were indicted in Chicago on charges of embezzling some $50,000 from the National Shoe Retailers' association. Stone was manager of the association offices for five years and Mrs. Burnett was cashier and bookkeeper for seven years.

Robert Norton, twenty-seven years old, of Geneva, shot himself fatally in the head because Miss Hazel Eckblad, twenty-one years old, with whom he had been keeping company for three years, had accepted a date with another man. The shooting took place in Miss Eckblad's presence in front of her home in Batavia. Norton died a few hours later in the Batavia Community hospital. He was an employee of a Chicago engineering company, had been a star javelin thrower in high school, and since that time had managed football and baseball teams in Geneva.

The beginning of work on the first federal project to be started in Illinois under President Roosevelt's recovery program was expected to give impetus to the re-employment of men in Illinois on authorized federal public works projects. Under the recovery program more than $17,000,000 has been allocated by the federal government for highway construction in this state. R. C. Jacobson, director of the Illinois re-employment service, disclosed that 1,225 men had been put to work on projects of various kinds in 13 counties. Of these, 80 men will be employed for some time on the first highway work under the recovery act, the construction of a three and a half mile gravel road in Franklin county. The other men given work through the state re-employment service were placed on jobs in the following counties: Alexander, 699 men; Pulaski, 23; Union, 59; Jackson, 48; Randolph, 180; Monroe, 23, and a total of 113 men distributed throughout the counties of Hancock, Kankakee, Lake, La Salle, Marshall, McHenry, and Rock Island. The latter group of 113 are working on barberry bush eradication. The others, totalling 1,032, are employed on river projects in connection with the flood control program, such as building levees.

Three bandits knocked out Joseph Bohman, village marshal of Fox River Grove, in McHenry county, and took his revolver and star in a holdup of the restaurant of Edward Zinicky in the village. They took about $500 from Zinicky and 15 patrons who were in the place. "We hate cops," one of the bandits remarked as he struck Bohman down.

Villa Turicum, the estate of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick in Lake Forest, was sold at a sheriff's sale at Waukegan for $51,624 to the American National Bank and Trust company of Chicago.

REDDY'S SMOOTH TONGUE

JERRY MUSKRAT was old enough to know better than to stay around listening to Reddy Fox. But, like most folks, Jerry likes to be praised and to hear nice things said of him and of his things. So when Reddy Fox said that that new house was the finest he ever had seen, and that not even Paddy the Beaver could build such a house, Jerry just couldn't take himself away.

"As long as I am out here in the water I am in no danger," thought Jerry, "and Reddy Fox certainly does know a good thing when he sees it. It is a pleasure to listen to one who understands and appreciates good things."

So Jerry swam around in circles or idly floated on the surface of the Smiling Pool while Reddy Fox talked.

Now, as of course you know, and many of the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest have found out to their sorrow, Reddy Fox

"I—I Will Be Glad to Tell You Just How to Build It," Said Jerry.

has a wonderfully smooth tongue. A smooth tongue, you know, is one that can say all manner of pleasant and delightful things, things to flatter those who listen.

Reddy grinned down at Jerry in the friendliest way. "If I were in your place, Jerry Muskrat," said he "I certainly would be very proud of such a fine house as that. I fear I should be rather puffed up over it. You don't seem to be, but if you were, I for one would not blame you in the least. May I ask how many rooms you have in it?"

"One," replied Jerry, wriggling all over with delight at this praise of his skill. "That is, I have one above water, but it is very large and comfortable. If you like the looks of my house from the outside you would, I am sure, like it still better if you could see the inside."

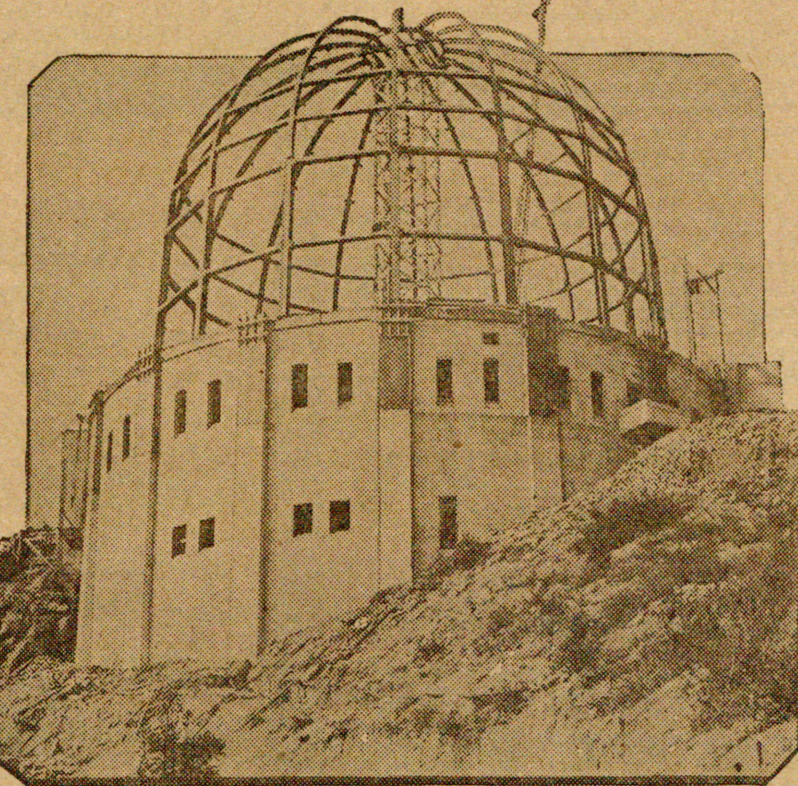

"There isn't a doubt of it, Jerry."

"Times were never so bad," says disillusioned Dell, "that a woman couldn't collect on a broken heart."

Griffith Observatory Nearly Done

THE new Griffith observatory and hall of science is near completion on a mountain top overlooking Hollywood, Calif. Unique in that it will be used for public education and pleasure rather than for purely scientific purposes, the observatory's scientific equipment will rank with the world's finest. One of the prominent features will be the planetarium which demonstrates the movements of the stars by projecting their images on an overhead dome. The institution is the gift of the late Col. Griffith J. Griffith, wealthy pioneer, who also presented Griffith park to the city of Los Angeles.

Indians Catching Salmon on the Columbia River

INDIAN fishermen utilize a net at the end of a long pole to catch salmon as they make the run to jump the Celilo falls on the Columbia river in Oregon. The Indians have to be very alert as it takes great strength and skill to hold a 30 to 50 pound salmon when it hits the net going at full speed.

There isn't a doubt about it," replied Reddy with great promptness. "I should love to see the inside of it, but I really don't need to in order to appreciate what a perfectly splendid house it is. If I lived in the water I certainly should want you to build me a house. In fact I am not sure but I would like just such a house on land. I think I would if only I knew how to go about building it. Do you suppose I could build one if I had some one to show me how to do it?"

Jerry Muskrat's eyes shone with pleasure at this praise of his house and his skill. For the time being he forgot that Reddy Fox was an enemy for whom all his life long he had had to be on the watch. He swam in a little nearer to the bank.

"Do you really mean that you would like a house like mine, only on land?" he asked.

"I certainly do," replied Reddy. "I can't think of anything I would like as well."

"I—I will be glad to tell you just how to build it," said Jerry in rather a hesitating way.

Reddy shook his head, still smiling. "I am afraid that wouldn't do," said he. "In fact, I know it wouldn't. I never in the world could do it from being told. I should have to have some one to show me. Oh, Jerry, if you would come with me and just show me how to build such a house I would be the happiest Fox in all the Great World!"

Reddy looked as if he meant every word of it, as indeed he did. A smooth tongue has Reddy Fox. A very smooth tongue.

FOR THE CHILDREN

EVERY mother knows how hard it is to force children to eat the food they should eat. The only way to accomplish this is to begin with the baby. Food and feeding time will be a happy time if habits of correct eating are formed early. The child who has had his own way in all things is going to make a difficult adult to live with or for other people to enjoy being with. It takes but little patience to train a baby, but often it is difficult when the child has become willful.

All foods given children should be simple, well cooked, easy to digest and attractively served. Tasting the food before being served is an important duty for the mother or nurse, to be sure it is palatable, for often dislikes have been formed that are hard to overcome, by one dish of poor food. The following are a few breakfast suggestions:

Orange Honey Crispy.

Peel an orange and separate into sections, removing the membrane. Allow six to eight sections for each serving. Dip each section into honey and turn over in rice or corn flakes, puffed wheat or any of the light cereals which have been warmed until crisp in the oven. Arrange on an attractive plate and serve. Maple sirup may be used in place of honey for variety.

Breakfast Cocktail.

One beaten egg yolk, a pinch of salt, a teaspoonful of honey and the juice of two oranges. Beat well and serve cold. This supplies iron from the egg yolk and vitamins from the orange juice. This is a good drink to give as a mid-meal.

The above recipes are equally good for the nursing mother who needs to take as much liquid as possible.

For a child of six years the addition of the juice of half a lemon to a glass of orange juice is recommended to give increased vitamin C and to prevent and cure tooth troubles.

Frosted Orange Juice.

Into a large glass pour a cupful of orange juice. Add a spoonful of vanilla ice cream and stir a moment, then serve.

And yet how many weep
That I have known.
At times the weary day
In sorrow ends;
I am not always gay,
Nor are my friends.

I do not always win,
Forever gain;
For life has thistles in
As well as grain.
At times the skies are wet,
The shadows fall;
But why should others fret,
I not at all?

ess that often calls for a considerable amount of will power. In such circumstances it is an aid to make the practice as difficult as possible; making hazards lend a competitive tone to the play.

For instance, Francis Ouimet as a youngster used to hit his practice iron shots to the green from behind a tree and in each attempt try to hit over the top. Not only was the element of height to be considered, but also the length of the shot in order to land it somewhere near the pin. In time the former amateur champion was able to carry the tree tops in consistent fashion. This valuable practice made shots from the fairway a much simpler process and left a rather confident feeling that even should he land into trouble, he had an excellent chance of recovering without taking an extra stroke.

INTERNATIONAL RECORD?

By flying 12,445,000 miles of a total of 13,100,000 miles scheduled during the past calendar year, United Air Lines completed vastly more scheduled mileage this year than any other transport company in the world, it is claimed, on the basis of an international check. The mileage completed was 95 per cent of the total mileage scheduled. Of the 12,445,000 miles flown, more than 9,000,000 were on the coast-to-coast route, said to be the most traveled long-distance route in the world. The 1932 mileage is expected to be exceeded by a large margin this year.

Beware the Cough or Cold that Hangs On

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (adv.)

Doris took her hand shakily. "You're awfully sweet," she said. Beatrice sat down. "Then let's talk quickly, because I can see you're tired to death. Rocky has told me everything. You know Rocky is just like my brother. We spent all of our vacations together as children, so I hope you won't mind his having told me. I don't think anyone else should know—" "Your father—" began Doris. "No, I don't think so. I'm sure he'd approve, but if anything comes up, it's better if he doesn't know. I have a small sitting room with a porch of my own downstairs. You shall spend your time there. I have everything planned. You need see no one except Mary, a maid who's been with us a long time, and is practically blind besides. And Rocky shall go and see your people." "But your wedding—" said Doris. "Yes, I'm afraid I shall be rather busy. I won't be able to see as much of you as I'd like. But it's not until Saturday. That's four days, and that's oceans of time for Rocky to get to New Jersey and back. He'll take the train. The bishop is arriving Saturday morning—so he'll be in time for the wedding rehearsal which is to be at eleven on the day of the wedding. And Friday night my bridesmaid is coming from Mount Kisco, and several friends of father's are coming—the Du Vals, of course, will be here."

"Oh I don't think we ought to stay," said Doris. "But we'll get away long before the wedding."

"Oh no! You must stay for the wedding."

Rocky shook his head gravely. "I will have to get Doris away before then. She'll be recognized."

"That's true, isn't it? But surely you'll have everything cleared up by then."

Doris said: "If I do stay, couldn't I write letters for you—or do something useful?"

"That's an idea. I'll have about a million letters to write. You are an angel." She rose. "Now you must sleep. This is Wednesday night. Rocky will get a train in the morning and be with your family—if it is your family, which I doubt—by tomorrow night. He ought to be able to get back here by Friday, and you can leave then, if you feel you must."

She took Rocky firmly by the arm. "We must go now. And let the poor child sleep."

"I don't know why you're all so considerate of me," said Doris, who was trembling on the verge of tears. "It's Rocky who needs rest, really. I've dozed in the car a lot, and he's been at the wheel since three o'clock this morning."

"Yesterday morning," said Rocky. He stood for a minute looking down at Doris when Beatrice had left the room. "Good night. I probably won't see you again until I get back."

His curt tone startled Doris. He was biting his lips nervously. His jaw twisted unpleasantly.

"What's the matter?" said Doris in astonishment.

Rocky held out his hand. "Good-night," he said in a businesslike tone. Doris bent her head. "Good-night."

As the door closed behind him tears sprang to her eyes. He had been so—not exactly unfriendly—but so matter of fact. She hardly knew what she had expected him to do. But certainly she had not looked for this abrupt impersonal good-by.

She crept between the sheets forlornly.

The sun was streaming in her room when she woke. Beatrice was standing beside her with a loaded tray.

"It's ten o'clock," smiled Beatrice. "and I thought you might be hungry."

Doris sat up, opening and closing her eyes. They still smarted from the strain of her long drive. "Oh. You're nice to bring up this—but aren't you terribly busy?"

"Busy calming the maids. You'd think each individual one was being married herself!"

"Has Rocky gone?"

"Yes, quite early—I have to run now. But I brought you this."

She gave Doris the morning paper.

Doris read it as she drank her coffee. At first she didn't notice the story though it was on the front page. Then the name "Diane Merrell" caught her eyes. She set down her cup with a gasp.

It was a double column heading on the front page of a New York morning paper. Some young reporter had done his best to make a humorous incident out of the stopping of Mrs. Rockwell Du Val on the road to Rockwell St. Garden's house. The story was sympathetic to Doris and Rocky. Lacking a picture of young Mrs. Rocky Du Val, they had printed one of Oscar Du Val with the caption.

"Son's wife taken in false arrest."

Doris read it through twice. It would have been a good story—a good joke on the police—if only she had been Mrs. Rocky Du Val.

She finished her breakfast slowly. At the end of the story was a paragraph which said that Mrs. Du Val was the fourth wrong Diane Merrell to have been discovered.

"Why couldn't one of those girls have been Diane Merrell instead of me?" she thought as she got out of bed.

She would ask Beatrice to get her some old newspapers. She would like to read about Diane Merrell.

She was bathed and dressed when Beatrice came back.

"I'm afraid I've been a long time, but there's such a lot to do." There was a busy little frown on her broad brow.

"I wonder, Beatrice, if you could dig up some old newspapers for me to read—"

"Of course."

They went downstairs together to Beatrice's pretty little room, done in flowered chintz.

"This has been my own special place since I was sixteen," said Beatrice. "I'm sure there are some newspapers in the basement. I'll send them up."

A few minutes later, an elderly maid came in and put down a huge pile of old newspapers on the table.

Doris rose unsteadily. She felt a little faint as she put out her hands to touch them. Here lay her own story—or did it? Would she have the courage to read it?

The first paper was recent, and yielded nothing. As she continued her search with a beating heart, she came upon great glaring headlines:

"Shoots Groom After Wedding. Society Girl Kills New Husband and Disappears. Note Found."

She read feverishly. She had been married at an afternoon wedding on May 19 to a man named Howard Valery. Immediately after the wedding reception, which had been at her father's home, she had gone out by a side door where her own motor was parked, loaded with her luggage. The groom had been with her. As they were about to step into the car she had shot him, and driven away.

As she read, a stronger and stronger feeling of antipathy for this girl Diane Merrell developed. Was it possible that she had ever been a girl capable of all this? She was a heartless, cold-blooded criminal. For the note proved that the crime had been premeditated.

She studied the note again. It had been found in the pocket of the poor boy whose body was discovered sprawled against a flowering lilac bush. It read:

HOWARD:
This marriage can't go on—it cannot. You must be crazy. I don't want to kill you.

Do something about it for heaven's sake.

Could any girl have written such a note and forgotten it? Surely, surely if she were Diane Merrell, she would remember something now. But not a faint glimmer of recollection enlightened her.

Could it be that she had two sides to her nature, and that that other, darker side was hidden from her now, sleeping quietly? Some day it might wake again, and she would find herself a killer. She would be capable of shooting somebody she loved—capable of shooting Rocky.

She was sick and frightened. She lay at full length on the gently swaying couch. Then she propped her head on her hands and took up another paper.

Diane Merrell had driven herself to New York. Her car had been found parked on Forty-sixth street the day after the murder.

She saw a large picture of herself. Yes, it looked very like her. There was no doubt about that.

She went back to her reading. There was a description of the wedding. It brought back nothing at all.

Doris tried not to think any more about Diane Merrell. Surely Rocky would discover something that would help her. He must be nearing Morristown by now.

She went to bed early. The next afternoon would bring Rocky back. That would have to settle her fate. Now she felt numb and exhausted.

In spite of everything she slept.

CHAPTER X

Rocky did not come the next afternoon. Instead came a telegram saying that he was catching a train that night and would arrive Saturday morning.

That would be the day of the wedding.

Doris had developed a streak of hopefulness. Rocky would have unraveled some clue, and would bring back the miraculous news that she was not Diane Merrell. Or he would have discovered that Howard Valery had not been killed, or that he had committed suicide. No, that would not do. The experts said that that was impossible. She remembered reading that. Besides, Diane had left a note. But how stupid she had been to put down on paper such an intention and then to carry it out, leaving the note for the police to find. Of course she hadn't meant it for the police.

Friday passed in a stew of speculation. She woke at dawn next morning with a heavy heart.

After breakfast she waited on the little porch beside the sitting room for Rocky. Her feeling of uncertainty deepened. After all, if she was Diane Merrell what could Rocky do for her? Whatever happened, a long life of loneliness stretched before her; that, or death.

"Mrs. Du Val sees no one." It was Mary's voice.

The butler answered, "I have told her that."

"The doctor's orders are that Mrs. Du Val cannot see anyone."

"I told her. But she won't listen."

Doris started to her feet. Who could be wanting to see her? Was it Rocky? No, it was a woman. As she hesitated, she heard Beatrice come in to the sitting room.

A new voice said loudly: "But I'm going to see her."

Where had she heard that voice before—a strong husky girl's voice? "Believe me," the voice went on, "you'd better not try to stop me if you know what's good for you."

Doris peeked in. The girl was someone she had seen before—a brown-eyed girl in a tailored suit of green linen. Doris had seen her before—but where?

"Plenty of good reasons—" "Whom did you wish to see?"

Beatrice was speaking in a crisp impersonal tone.

"I want to see the girl calling herself Mrs. Rockwell Du Val." The girl eyed Beatrice, unimpressed by the lack of cordiality in her manner. "Plenty of good reasons why she don't want to see me I know—"

"Then why do you try—?"

"Plenty more why she'd better."

Doris recognized her. She was the girl she had seen at the clam stand—the friend of the real Doris. Rocky had called her Molly.

The big brown eyes looked full of determination. She was looking Beatrice full-in the face belligerently.

"There's no use trying to high-hat me. Are you Mrs. Du Val?"

"No," said Beatrice quietly.

"I thought you weren't. I have an idea who she is. And I intend to go through every room in this house to find her if I have to."

The quiet youthful voice of Beatrice was in marked contrast to Molly's insistent tones. "Won't you sit down and tell me what it is you want to see Mrs. Du Val about?"

"That's my business," said Molly sullenly.

"Supposing you tell it to me."

"Like h—I I will."

"Then I'm afraid you can't see her."

Molly's tone held a jeer. "Oh yeah? Well, supposing I tell you I'm a friend of the real Mrs. Du Val?"

Beatrice said nothing.

"That gets you, doesn't it? Now perhaps you'll understand why I want to take a squint at the girl who is palming herself off as Doris Du Val."

"I'm afraid I don't," said Beatrice quietly. "How did you find out about this?"

"Doris saw it in the papers. Mrs. Du Val arrested. And that made her wonder, as the saying goes. She sent me a wire."

"You are here then as Mrs. Du Val's agent? Am I to understand that?"

Molly sat down and crossed her legs. "Yeah. That's about it."

"Where is Mrs. Du Val?"

"That's my business, too."

"Rocky said that Doris had left him. Do you know where she is?"

"Supposing I do?"

"Does Doris want to get Rocky to come back to her?"

Molly disdainfully inserted her tongue between opened lips and blew vigorously. "H—I, no," she remarked when she had finished the exercise.

"I'm sorry. I don't quite understand."

Molly, searching in the untidy depths of her very large hand-bag, brought out a paper package of cigarettes. "Gee, I've smoked my last one." She crumpled the bright green wrapper in her fist. "Have you got one?"

Beatrice rose and handed her a silver box filled with the small white cylinders.

Molly seemed cheered as she lit her cigarette, and much more favorably impressed with Beatrice. "Tell you how it is—this is just between you and I, of course—but Doris wants me to dicker with the girl financially—see?"

Astonishment showed in Beatrice's breathless "Dicker? Financially? Do you mean that Mrs. Du Val wants to get a divorce from Rocky?"

"That's it. I knew you'd get it. I knew you'd get it."

"But—I should think that would be a private matter for her to discuss with Rocky."

Molly blew a smoke ring very carefully. This done, she looked at Beatrice pityingly. "You look like a girl who would think a thing like that."

"I am awfully sorry. I'm afraid you'll think I'm a bit stupid. But what financial transactions are you talking about?"

"In a couple of words, baby: alimony."

"Alimony?"

Doris could not stand any more. She stepped out from behind the curtains.

"I'd like to say a word or two."

Beatrice rose. Her face was horrified. Molly's big brown eyes half closed in a veiled, critical stare.

"I thought you'd turn out to be the girl. I wrote Doris about meeting you down among the clams. And was she pleased? She's been trying to get something like that on Rocky for months! The Du Vals have got plenty, and she'll take a big cash settlement, and that will be the end. You know—she's willing to be big—"

Doris was seething. She clenched her hands together and spoke with difficulty. "I have nothing to do with all this."

"Oh now, what's the use of taking that attitude? Some girls wouldn't be generous like Doris. With what she's got on you now—she could get alimony for the rest of her life—see? But she won't—say listen, Girlie, you're in the movies, aren't you?"

"Of course I'm not."

BEAUTY TALKS

By

MARJORIE DUNCAN

BRUSHES IN BEAUTY SCHEME

IN THE beauty scheme of things, brushes play a very active part. There's the hair brush, nail brush, clothes brush, tooth brush, eyebrow brush, shoe brush, bath brush and if the skin will stand it the complexion brush. These brushes are important accessories toward good grooming and as you value personal loveliness add these beauty aids to your toiletries. And keep them busy, too.

Now let us see what the requisites for the hair brush are: it should have long, flexible bristles, not too soft or the purpose (of stimulating the circulation through the scalp, cleaning and polishing every strand of hair) is defeated. On the other hand, the bristles must not be too stiff or they will irritate the scalp. As in all things the happy medium is preferable in the matter of brush bristles.

Harsh bristles should be avoided—whether in a hair brush, clothes brush, nail brush, etc. Such bristles are unkind to scalp, clothes and hands. This holds for complexion brush too. In fact, such a brush is only for the woman with an oily or heavy type of skin. When using it, the movements should be gently upward and outward. Remember that the skin can be soaped and cleansed, without scrubbing or harsh treatment.

The tooth brush we need not go into. Your dentist is the logical one to advise the type of brush you need. But here again medium bristles are advisable for the majority of people, and remember that the bristles should be so arranged that every tooth and every part of the mouth can be thoroughly cleansed. Every dentist will tell you that two tooth brushes are better than one—and every man, woman and child should own two and alternate them.

The eyebrow brush is a small affair with one or two little rows of bristles and this important accessory is so inexpensive that I know many women who keep two or three in their dressing table drawer. One removes any excess powder remaining on brows and one gives the brows and lashes a silky sheen after the mascara has dried. The way to brush the brows, you know, is first the wrong way, then into place. Lashes are brushed in semi-circular fashion, uppers upward and around as though you would curl every little hair under and the lower lashes downward and around.

THE CLEAN LOOK

EVERYWHERE you go in health and beauty circles you hear a great deal about "that clean look."

The phrase is becoming as popular as a sure-fire wisecrack or a first seller in slogans. It refers to much, much more than superficial cleanliness. It points to perfection and polish.

Some time ago in the course of a beauty lecture I referred to "that clean, crisp look."

I said two things were necessary to achieve it. Perhaps my audience expected me to say: Soap and brushes. But I had reference to: Respect for one's self and respect and thoughtfulness for those around us. And again I repeat that I do not mean merely bathing or washing face and hands. These are important—very important—yes. But they are elementary, fundamental. I take it for granted that every woman has made a habit of bathing every day and keeping her skin clean.

But that clean, crisp look goes further. It includes brushing the hair. The woman who can boast that clean look never has her hair disheveled. Every strand and wisp is in place. For trimness and neatness go with that clean look. Your coiffure may be elaborately intriguing or very simple. The arrangement does not matter—at least it is secondary in importance to a neat, "always-in-place" arrangement which is another way of saying "that clean look."

Brows must be brushed too. They are an important factor in the perfect picture. And if a little wild hair, here and there decides to march backward or out of line it must be disciplined. If brushing won't help—then pluck. But, mind you, pluck only the unruly hairs, for natural brows are now the vogue.

A clean, clear complexion is another important factor. Discolorations, oiliness, shine, blackheads or eruptions all take something away from "that clean look."

Well-kept hands, perfectly groomed nails come in for their share of attention too.

As for clothes—buttons should be where they belong, stocking seams straight, heels kept in repair and shoes polished, suits and coats brushed free from dust, and lingerie touches always fresh and dainty.

Even make-up when properly applied adds to that clean look.

Learn to relax. I know a busy executive who always looks rested, interesting and alert. The reason for this is: she has learned the value of relaxation. Before and after her luncheon she rests for a few minutes. Even if she is at her desk—she simply lets her mind become a complete blank. Then she "lets go" shoulders, arms, her whole body. Or while waiting for her lunch to be served she relaxes.

CHANCE TO GO "BACK TO SOIL"

Uncle Sam Disposing of His Back Yard.

If the people are going back to the soil, it can also be said that Uncle Sam is giving the public domain back to the people. All fences are being removed and his back yard is open again.

A new effort is being made to redistribute overbalance of population in industrial centers.

One of the largest sections of vacant acreage is in the Golden state—15,712,567 acres.

Nevada seems to have the largest open territory—51,221,934. Utah still has 25,197,820 acres. Arizona, New Mexico, Oregon, Wyoming and other western states still have vast areas of unpossessed soil. Florida is the only eastern state with any possibilities for the homesteader—32,303 acres.

There need be no great hurry about packing up and rushing off to seize this land either in the West or East, however. A great deal of it is without water other than rainfall—and the rains are apt to be scarce. A lot is in the form of mountain and desert and some is swamp land. Most of the desirable territory is taken.

Uncle Sam has already disposed of 250,000,000 acres to homesteaders, 400,000,000 acres in sales and about 140,000,000 to railroads, highways and canals. And his grants to states cover 181,000,000 acres.

He started out with 1,442,200,320 acres of unoccupied land in the beginning. This has shrunk to 173,318,246 acres. This does not include 35,184,712 acres withdrawn for various purposes and 135,952,948 acres in national forests. National parks and monuments take up 6,231,186 acres more, and 56,676,535 acres are still in Indian reservations.—Los Angeles Times.

The Baldheaded Row

Hitherto the idea has prevailed that baldness is a purely physical defect. Millions of human beings have in good faith attempted to remedy the trouble on that basis, having been solemnly assured by the experts that the cause was wholly physical. We have supposed that Socrates, Cicero, Shakespeare and other famous baldheads of history became so through some weakness of the hair roots or the lack of some nutritive quality in the scalp. Are we now to assume that they and thousands of other distinguished men lost their hair merely through overmuch worry about financial matters?—Washington Star.

MEDICAL ADVICE

If you want to

- ... keep the bowel action regular and comfortable
- ... make constipated spells as rare as colds
- ... avoid danger of bowel strain

—use a liquid laxative

Can constipation be overcome? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" declare thousands who have followed their advice and know.

You are not apt to cure your constipation with salts, pills and tablets, or any habit-forming cathartic. But you can overcome this condition just by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels just as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

Why Hospitals use a liquid laxative

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will it irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains a doubtful drug, don't take it. If you

THE TEST:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics!

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: Take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used.

FRANKFORT

THE FRANKFORT M. E. LADIES' AID, HAS

LARGE GATHERING
The Ladies' Aid Society of the Frankfort M. E. Church met in the Manse Thursday afternoon for its regular monthly business and social meeting, with Mrs. C. F. Schellhase, the Reverend, as hostess.

The Reverend C. F. Schellhase led the devotionals after which the president presided.

A representative of The Good Win Plan of America was present and gave a talk on the ways and means of this plan which was then adopted by the society.

The programme consisted of readings by Mrs. O. Heisner and Mrs. O. Herschbach and a vocal solo by Mr. Wesley Hollstein, which was enjoyed immensely.

Fifty-five people attended this meeting and a very large offering was taken.

A Christmas party was planned for Thursday, December 7, which will be held in the church parlor, Mrs. Frank Tinker to have charge of the program.

Mrs. Schellhase was assisted in serving by the Misses Ruby Heisner, Lauretta Maas, Mildred Lorenzen and Lillian Bauch.

Out of town visitors were: Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson and daughter Vivian and Mrs. Oswald Scherwin of Chicago; Mrs. Wm. Schellase and son Richard of Mokena, Mrs. F. Kort haur and Mrs. Fred Schark of Manitowish, Wisconsin; Mrs. Walter Carlson of Joliet; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schellhase, Mrs. Harry Brandau, and Mrs. Ed. Breitbarth of Tinley Park.

FRANKFORT SCHOOL NEWS

In behalf of the boys and girls basketball teams we wish to thank our boosters for the fine turnout at the first game of the season with Monee School on November 27th. We need your support to carry on. Here's to your Mother and Dad! Come again on October 27th, thirty mothers met at the school house to take up a course of study on Character Training for boys and girls. It is hoped that better co-operation in the building of the characters of the sons and daughters will be stimulated by these joint meetings of parents and teachers.

Our next meeting will be held on the auditorium on Friday, November 10th, at 2:45 p. m. We hope to see every one interested in the welfare of their children, present.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving day will soon be here, Hurrah! hurrah! hear the children cheer,
Out in the shed the turkey is tied,
And it won't be long before it is fried.

— II —
Thanksgiving day is here at last
And Oh! the day goes past so fast
The dinner bell now is ringing.
The children for joy are singing.

— III —
Thanksgiving is one of the happiest days of the year.
For it is a day that brings good cheer
Then on this day we all must thank-ful be
For the good things God gave to you and me.

"Here's a Tip"

"If you are on the trail of economy, get a telephone! Or, if you have one—use it! Telephoning is cheaper than running errands in person, and so much faster there's no comparison. As a protection the telephone is a necessity... as a business helper it is a wise investment... and as a family friend, a source of much enjoyment. Mighty few folks can afford to be without one."

Gas Heat give you an extra hour's sleep

Picture of a man

building a fire in a home heated with GAS

To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

MAN, but it's great to get an extra hour of sleep in the morning. And wake up and find that the house is warm. No running down the cellar steps in pajamas to fire the furnace. Automatic gas heat brings real joy to every home. Eliminates all furnace tending and watching, grate shaking, ash hauling, chopping kindling, setting dampers and waiting for heat to come up.

With gas heat there is no dust, grime or dirt. Walls and drapes stay clean. Less dusting and scrubbing—advantages every housekeeper desires.

Why not install gas heat in your home and get the pleasure of automatic heat for the nine winter months to come? Rates for gas heat are now one-half of what they were in the 1930-31 season. Every home can now afford the luxury of gas heat.

Let us install gas heat now. Just tell us that you want to try gas heat. We will install it in your furnace or boiler and bear the entire cost. Then you try it one month, two months or a year. While you are trying gas heat you pay only $3 a month rental for the equipment in the average home. This charge is included in the bill for the gas you use.

And if, for any reason, during the first year you want it removed we take it out and the rental charge stops immediately. If you decide that you want to keep gas heat, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment. Phone your nearest Public Service Store for information.

The greatest of World's Fairs ends November 12. Be sure to see it.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS

NEST EGGS

Electricity and gas do more for the women of northern Illinois than assist them in their household duties—it gives them a nest egg.

For there are almost as many women stockholders as men in the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

Of the 27,418 stockholder-owners of the Company, 10,853 of them are women and 12,049 are men.

The women gain additional investment in the Company through the 3,367 joint ownerships in which husbands and wives usually participate and the 1,149 remaining stockholders are corporations, such as insurance companies, lodges, churches, trade unions and other such organizations.

So, in cleaning carpets, washing and ironing clothes and performing other household tasks with the aid of electricity and gas, women have developed a faith in the service which has led them to invest in it.

RED CROSS BATTLES DISTRESS

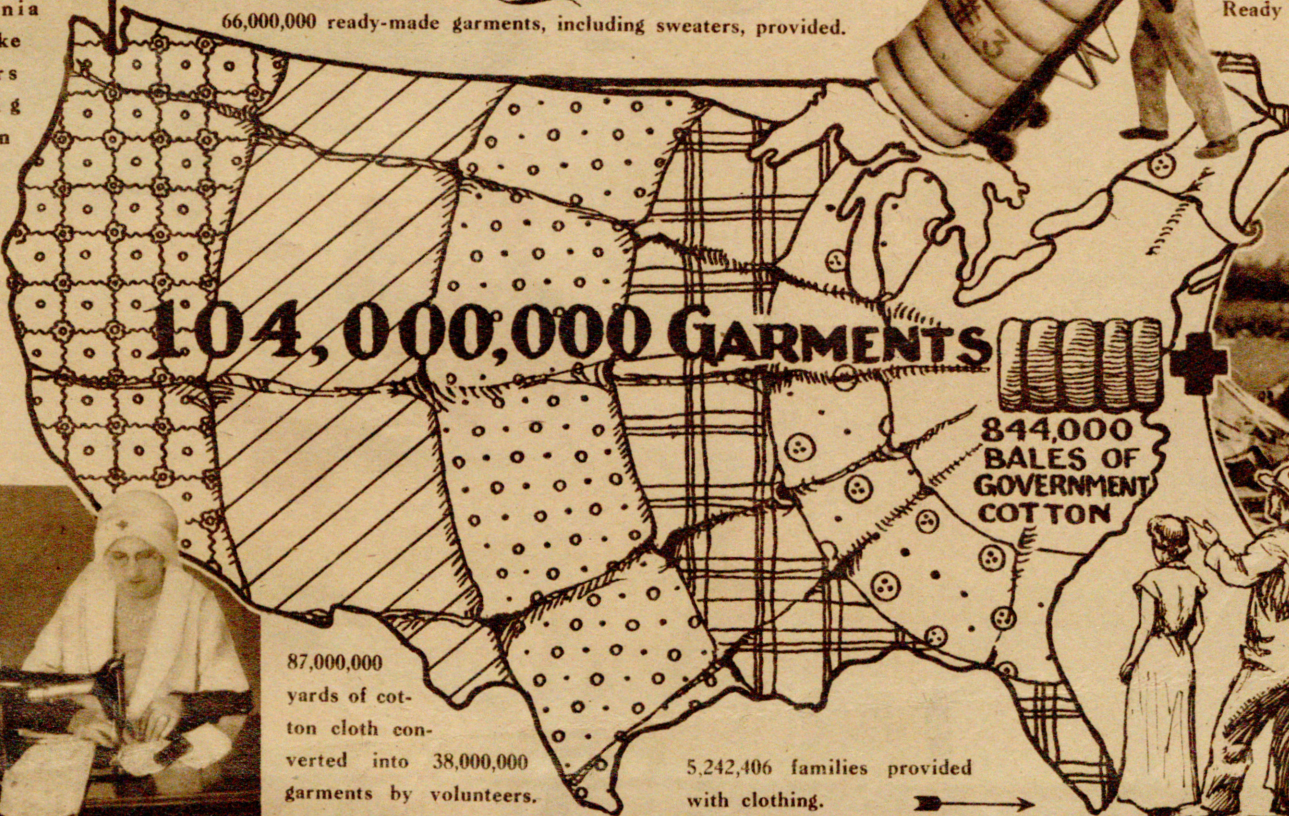

RED CROSS CLOTHES NATION'S NEEDY AND DISTRESSED

66,000,000 ready-made garments, including sweaters, provided.

Ready to distribute Red Cross flour to the needy.

California earthquake sufferers making known their needs to Red Cross.

87,000,000 yards of cotton cloth converted into 38,000,000 garments by volunteers.

Their home demolished by a tornado, this Alabama family turns to Red Cross.

Junior Red Cross members singing carols to shut-ins.

Red Cross volunteers carry food to homes inundated by Ohio river.

Red Cross aids homeless after destructive fires in Maine.

Red Cross first aid on the highway.

The Red Cross has given relief to those in need because of unemployment, disaster and related causes, in every State, in practically every county, of the United States the past year.

With 85,000,000 bushels of government wheat it produced and distributed 10,500,000 barrels of flour to nearly 6,000,000 families, more than 25,000,000 men, women and children.

From 844,000 bales of government cotton it produced 104,000,000 garments to help clothe more than 5,000,000 families.

2,627 Chapters expended $2,420,000 in relief in various forms to the unemployed.

92 disasters in the U. S. and its possessions required Red Cross relief. The National organization appropriated $382,200 for relief work in these disasters in addition to contributions raised locally. In 12 weeks disaster service was given in 147 counties in 24 States to more than 30,000 families.

275,000 war veterans and their families were aided by Red Cross Chapters.

700 Red Cross public health nurses made more than a million home visits.

65,000 First Aid certificates were issued. 75,000 individuals enrolled in Life Saving Classes. 35,000 students of Home Hygiene were awarded certificates. 6,700,000 school children enrolled in the Junior Red Cross, served in their communities.

Volunteer workers made 38,000,000 garments.

The pictures on this page illustrate but a few incidents in the year's nation-wide work of the national Red Cross and its 3,698 Chapters, 10,000 Branches. The Red Cross must "carry on."

It must have YOUR generous support through membership. You are urged to JOIN in the annual Red Cross, November 11 to 30. Help your Red Cross to carry on.

LINCOLN ESTATES

Wm. Martin Auxiliary, No. 725, V. F. W. held a joint installation of officers at the Barn, Sunday, November 5th, at 3:00 p. m., with Wm. Martin Post.

Mrs. Elsie Hinds, Past President of Cantigny Auxiliary, was the installing officer.

Mrs. Harriet Marquardt Department Treasurer, of Chicago, gave a short address.

Mrs. Marie Van Ham, President of Cantigny Auxiliary No. 367, gave a definite charge to the new officers, in her talk.

There were representatives from South Park, Chicago Heights and Joliet Auxiliaries.

The Color Bearers from Cantigny Auxiliary put on the floor work which was most impressive.

A large audience was present, and at the close of the ceremonies refreshments were served and dancing followed.

A. C. Becker has just returned from a months fishing trip spent at Minocqua, Wisconsin. He reports plenty of good fishing and a good time. Mr. Becker says fishing was so good that fish under ten pounds were tossed back into the water.

Mr. R. L. Becker is enjoying a few days vacation, visiting with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Becker.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Becker and Mrs. J. W. Becker of Hazel Crest, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Becker, Sunday.

The Parent Teacher's Organization of the Ann Rutledge School held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening. The little folks of the first three grades entertained their parents with the following program:

Alphabet Song, Pupils of Grades 1 - 2 - 3. Duet, Teaching Country School, Jane Slagle and Lisa Goering. Explanation of Indian Village on Sand Table, Doris Tyler.

The parents were much interested in the children's work that was posted on the blackboards.

Jacob P. DeYoung

Justice of the Peace, South Holland

Jacob P. DeYoung is one of the leading figures in South Holland's public life today.

Jacob P. DeYoung is a member of the Cook County Forest Preserve Advisory Committee and is Chairman of the Board of the Calumet District Clean Streets Committee. His career has been one of significance to the welfare and advance of the people, and in his present position of honor and trust he commands the esteem and admiration of the profession with which he is associated and of the people.

Sitting in review upon human action is a duty that calls for fine powers of discrimination requiring of the judge on the bench that he be able to read human nature, to stand in the other men's shoes, and only with such adaptability may a justice be said to possess the qualities necessary to success.

These attributes in abundance are part of the equipment of Jacob P. DeYoung, whose broad sympathies and dependable judgement have made his name widely known.

Louis F. Schwartz

City Clerk, Blue Island.

Louis F. Schwartz, holds the office of City Clerk at Blue Island. That office has long existed and many varied have been the men who have filled it. Mr. Schwartz is a man who from the inception of his career, made up his mind that life was a serious proposition and that to succeed he must be well prepared for the problems that would eventually be set before him.

Thus it was that Louis F. Schwartz prepared himself academically as well as psychologically. In other words, he studied life, the needs of his fellow men and then set about to find the best way to serve those fellow men in the right way. It has been this fair and square method of running his office that has brought him the plaudits of the people, and it is his esteem that has brought him just recognition. Such men are the type of men who pushed forward because the citizenry know full well they are always dependable to serve the community in a constructive manner.

Hon. F. W. Bruggeman

MAYOR OF HARVEY

One of the names, looming large in public life in our surrounding area is that of F. W. Bruggeman, Mayor of Harvey. He has a notable record as a public official, is well known to political leaders and the rank and file where his activities keep him ever before the public. He is a friend of the people, regardless of partisanship, won by distinguished advocacy of their rights, in his every action. A canvass of the community would show that many of the political leaders as well as the voters in general would stand behind Mayor Bruggeman in any fight he might care to wage; for they have all been watching him in his present office and they know full well that he studies public questions carefully and closely and that his mind is keyed to the responsibility he owes the people who placed him where he is.

Edward E. Bochman

Road Commissioner Calumet Twp.

People forget that everything worth while has to be secured by conquest over the forces of nature and human nature. It is easy to point out defects in a machine that so many people are trying to run at the same time and each in his own way. The real efficiency of modern methods, however, is in those departments of public service run by experts, because no one but experts can do the work. That is why such departmental work runs smoothly. An instance may be cited in the case of Edward E. Bochman of Blue Island, who is Road Commissioner of Calumet Township.

During the time he has held this office he has admirably acquitted himself of the arduous duties of the post, in a manner that has enlisted the commendation of all concerned.

John Clarke

Highway Commissioner, Bremen Township

One of the most remarkable and successful public officials in this area is John Clarke who has for thirty years so creditably filled the office of Highway Commissioner in Bremen Township. There is an office that was never by the wildest imagination considered a sinecure. That is because the work of this office is too strenuous and the responsibilities too arduous. Not everyone likes hard work. However, this ambitious public servant relishes it. It did not take him long to make necessary changes. And he never used any so-called "efficiency expert" methods either; for to him all the office needed was plenty of elbow grease, gray matter and horse sense, and he achieved to the admiration of all concerned by rendering a courteous, careful, and helpful service. Thus he has shown the greatest of progress and success, tinged with an honesty of purpose of which there can be no doubt.

St. Francis Hospital

A Modern Medical and Surgical Institution

Located at 12948 South Gregory in Blue Island. Phone 1180.

Blue Island and vicinity may be justly proud of one of its public institutions namely, St. Francis Hospital.

It is modern, has the latest equipment and all rooms are comfortable and cheerful. It is a general hospital, featuring general hospital service, general practice and surgery.

One of the splendid features is the manner in which they cooperate with reputable doctors. The patients are always perfectly free to engage the services of any doctor they may in their opinion see fit to choose. The best doctors have given this institution their approval and are always striving to serve the patients there to the best of their ability.

The St. Francis Hospital has a high rating in professional circles and there is no question of the sick receiving the best care and scientific attention in an institution of such splendid rating.

It is with pleasure that we detail in this review the advantages of the St. Francis Hospital and we wish to recommend it to all the people of the surrounding territory.

John H. Black

Justice of the Peace, Calumet Township, Blue Island.

John H. Black, is one of the leading figures in Blue Island's public life today. Prominent as a Justice of the Peace, Judge Black, is the only official in Blue Island who was elected on the Democratic ticket, and therefore well merits space in our feature columns. His career has been one of significance to the welfare and advance of the people.

Sitting in review upon human actions is a duty that calls for fine powers of discrimination requiring of the judges on the bench that he be able to read human nature, to stand in the other man's shoes, and only with such adaptability may a justice be said to possess the qualities necessary to success. These attributes in abundance are part of the equipment of Judge John H. Black of Blue Island whose broad sympathies and dependable judgement have made his name widely known.

Otto Ziebell

Supervisor Bremen Township

Otto Ziebell who holds the office of Bremen Township Supervisor and who is one of the leading men of the community, owes his advancement into the list of notables, to the fact that the pendulum of praise always swings toward the men who are backed by rugged honesty of purpose. It is such men who win the confidence of its citizenry. His climb to prominence, however, has not been without its trials. But that is true of any public official, for there are always those who would have a man use his office for ulterior purposes, giving out "plums" as it were and other unwarranted favors.

But his record of treating one and all alike, and straightforward manner of dealing during his years in office has been recognized and has pleased the masses. After all, that is a finer tribute than the so called "clever politician" who sometimes forgets the citizenry. Such men are indeed well worth while.

Allen L. Fox

Civil Engineer and Surveyor

City Engineer, Blue Island

Engineering fills the average mind with exploits such as the world has never seen before. The days of romance and magic have been eclipsed. Technical skill has produced some thing more wonderful. With this as a preamble, we are ready to appreciate the value of engineering talent in bringing to pass some of the notable works of a municipal nature during the past decade. The Department of Engineering of Blue Island has given a good account of itself during that time; but it is doubtful if ever before has it made a better showing than under the expert guidance of Allen L. Fox. Men who have earned their spurs are given a fuller scope for the exercise of their abilities and in his case there has been no exception. To be well fitted for the arduous duties of this office requires a thorough and vigorous training that has taken many years to acquire. Thus it is seen that some of the more important branches of city service, merit the only badge that permits the wearer to pass through the gates of recognition in the true sense of the word, recognition that brings proper reward.

Hon. Carl J. Carlson

Police Magistrate

The office held by Carl J. Carlson, Police Magistrate of Blue Island is not a bed of roses. It has hills and sharp corners and few (men) would languish under its responsibilities.

But Judge Carlson who so capably holds this office is a man who has no dislike for responsibilities, arduous duties that must be performed and exigencies that must be met. And civic spiritedly he works harder to acquit himself of these duties in an efficient and admirable manner, than were it his own business, enhancing his own fortune. Such men are true builders of a community and are to be duly appreciated. For example, Judge Carlson could be devoting himself to some other occupation that would bring him a much greater emolument in dollars and cents. But to a man of Judge Carlson's type, dollars are not to be compared with the privilege of doing a public service that is constructive.

Fred A. Rice

City Treasurer, Blue Island

Real efficiency and modern methods find their greatest outlets in the conduct of an office having to deal with the efforts of experts, and in no department of civic government is this more apparent than in the office of the Treasurer. When a department so manages its affairs as to escape criticism, yet render unto the citizenship the rightful measure of responsibility for the upkeep of the public machinery, it may well be said to accomplish its purpose as an important cog in government machinery.

Fred A. Rice is Treasurer at Blue Island and during the time he has occupied this post, has demonstrated his fitness for the arduous duties of the office.

Zealously guarding the interests of the taxpayers and losing no opportunity of lightening the burden of the smaller property owner and business element, he has made it plain that a public servant of high ideals and purposes loyal to his trust can make himself an invaluable asset to the community.

Hon. Frank Kasten

Mayor of Blue Island

Being the chief executive of a municipality like Blue Island, is no sinecure. It requires a constructive trend of mind not every one possesses. Mr. Kasten takes his work seriously and feels that reward of seeing Blue Island grow in population and importance is reward all sufficient. Mr. Kasten has come to the front in political life and municipal progress because of his level head, which he knows how to use without losing it. His fulfillment of the arduous duties of the office has well proved his fitness, showing a manner of doing things thoroughly and never by halves, a thoroughness that is characteristic of this able executive. His uniformly square deal habit has made him a leader. Mr. Kasten has not arrived at the highest pinnacle within the reach of his abilities nor has he obtained the full reward of his deserts. But he bides his time. He is a true example of loyal adherence to his friends.

John Link

Chief of Fire Department, Blue Island

Men may erect splendid buildings that are veritable monuments to human progress and attainment, yet if those achievements are as thought if not protected against the ravages of the elements. Providing safeguards for the little home of the worker is as vitally necessary as guarding the tall office buildings of the industrial or banker. The greater the precaution against loss of life and property, the higher standing the community receives in the state and national ratings. This makes the activities of Chief John Link at Blue Island extremely important. He is Chief and through his expertness and well applied efforts he has made a splendid reputation for himself and his fire fighting forces. Besides being a master fireman, Chief Link has the happy faculty of inciting his force to the maximum of efforts in emergencies, saving the community thousands of dollars. Chief Link well merits the designation as one worthy of the highest commendation.

Soap's Washing Power the Important Factor

By RUBY BAKER

Fresh, snowy-white washings—the kind that make the neighbors look and admire—are easier to get than many a woman imagines.

Much depends on the quality of the soap you use. Since it's the soap that does the actual cleansing, you'll find it pays to use a good soap rather than a "cheap" one. As one housewife recently put it:

"I never thought that the kind of soap I put into my tub mattered very much. Yet I used to rub and rub, and still my clothes always looked dingy. Then, I found that it was wiser to be fussy and get real quality for my soap money. After that, I had marvelous results."

Quality, of course, does not mean size or form or color. It means the washing power of the cleansing agents in a soap—the ability to pitch right in and get out the dirt—without hard rubbing and without harm to the fabric.

If your soap is made of fine ingredients, it doesn't matter what form it is. And it's well to remember that thorough cleanliness—not the color of soap—makes clothes white.

1 JAR RESINOL HEALED SEVERE ECZEMA

"More than 35 years ago, when I was a child, I developed a severe case of eczema behind my left ear. In spite of all the remedies used the disease spread rapidly over my head. Finally our doctor, one of the best in Kansas City, told Mother to try Resinol Ointment as he knew it was good. It was wonderful and after using a full jar the affection was entirely healed. Since then I have been an ardent user of Resinol for burns, cuts, and all manner of skin affections, and have never known it to fail. There is nothing like it for the skin disorders of babies, it is so soothing and healing." (Signed) —Mrs. O. S. P.

Gold Coins Worth Far

More Than Face Value

Uncle Sam's call for gold coin has brought to public recognition a lot of facts concerning the striking of gold pieces in the United States that heretofore were known only by enthusiastic numismatists. President Roosevelt's appeal, or order, that all gold coin and certificates must be turned in resulted in the recapture by the federal treasury of some $630,000,000 in those moneys, and among the actual gold there have made their appearance a lot of pieces which, by equity, and perhaps even by law, the government has no title to. This we should explain, for the reason that a great many such coins, that the public may have been wheedled into turning in, have a value far in excess of that which the government pays for them.

These are coin curiosities that have acquired far above their face or gold weight worth. For instance, some have presented for redemption examples of the old California gold 25-cent pieces, mere flecks of gold scarcely thick enough to hold the stamp mark. And yet certain of these are valued by coin collectors at not 25 cents, but that many dollars. And, at the other extreme in size, is the so-called California slug, a piece of polygonal outline containing gold to the value of $50. This coin has been known to sell as a numismatic curiosity for $1,000. And a similar super-value is given to the long-out-of-circulation $3 gold piece. There is a yarn going round that a collector once offered $75,000 for a double eagle of 1894, of which only a single one was minted. We do not vouch for the story, but our guess is that if it is true the individual who has that piece in hoarding would be most unlikely to turn it up to the treasury for 50 dollars, even if the officials got wind of its existence.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Whirlwind's Freak

TO MOTHERS
whose children won't
EAT

Nature knows best. Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system. California syrup of figs is all the "medicine" they require.

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children seem to need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and avoid colds and sluggish spells.

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The very next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

The promises made by the bottlers of California Syrup of Figs are true, and it will do the same for you, if it's genuine CALIFORNIA. Don't accept substitutes.

REPPRESSED
INHIBITIONS

By Bertha Lee Cross

©, 1933, McClure Newspaper Syndicate, W.N.S. Service

STANDING at the open window overlooking the campus, Prof. Carl Bunbridge was gloating over the fact that at last he was going to have a vacation, and best of all would be free from a chattering group of girls.

Below him the campus of the Carlisle College for Young Women was dotted with the motley colors of feminine dresses and sober black or grays of men guests.

"My God!" he ejaculated as a burst of noisy laughter and feminine chatter arose from below. "One more week of this and I'd be gibbering! I hope there won't be a woman within a radius of ten miles!"

His thoughts centered with restful gratitude on the reservation he'd made in the little country village high among the Berkshires.

He visualized the still lake surrounded by high ranges; the pure air; the solitude which his faded nerves craved.

He knew that he could isolate himself from the handful of other guests which the place accommodated.

The previous summer he had been restfully let alone. Here he could work at his hobby of hunting strange flora, and find peace.

A week later and the professor was sitting on the wide piazza of the inn looking off across the meadows to the distant mountains.

He was pleasantly tired after a hard day's tramping. Relaxing his muscles, he stretched his long legs out and flexed his arms.

He sat up with a snap.

The afternoon stage had stopped and a girl emerged. He watched her anxiously as she turned in at the inn gate and marched up the walk.

As she stepped onto the piazza, she set her bags down and looked off at the pageant of the hills. Her eyes were large and profoundly blue; her gaze was rapt and intent.

"Glorious view!" she commented sofly. "Been here long?"

The professor had risen to his feet as she approached. He was a gentleman even if he were a woman hater and misanthrope.

His inner perturbation told him that his peace and solitude was over. This girl would annex him as he was the only male on the premises but the hired man.

"A week," politely. "I have three more."

At the inn the meals were informal and served family style.

The other eight guests were family groups and the newcomer and the professor naturally were thrown together. Their seats at the table were next each other, and they talked desultorily.

After supper the professor thought he would take a walk to the village and get the mail. He started down the steps and was hailed by the new arrival.

"Oh, wait!" she cried. "I'll walk down with you."

He watched her as she came down the steps and his eyes took in the fact that she was exquisitely lovely. Soft, fine hair of spun gold, and the soulful eyes that do things to a man's heart. A tiny dimple at the corner of her mouth intrigued him. For the first time in his thirty odd years, he was self-conscious.

He had already learned that her name was Mary. Mary Carlisle. On the way to town he also learned that there is a type of woman who doesn't chatter.

In fact, she seemed more interested in the light and shadow effect of the sunset over the mountains, than in him and he had to speak to her twice to make her aware of his presence.

"It's so beautiful it makes my heart ache!" she exclaimed impulsively.

"Look at the sun on the hill tops! See that wonderful cloud formation over there."

"You love nature?" in astonishment.

"I never knew that girls even noticed such things."

They chatted and by the time they had arrived at the village, all restraint was gone. The professor no longer mourned the lack of solitude, but was eagerly anxious for more of her company. He said good-night with her promise to see the sunrise with him from the hill back of the house.

One day, soon after, he learned that his interest was love . . . real love, the devastating thing that had never yet come into his life.

She had gone to a nearby city that day for a visit to a dentist and the professor, to pass the time of her absence, had taken a lunch and climbed the mountain.

All of a sudden he became aware of how dull . . . how stale the hike was. The fact rushed over him that it was because Mary was not there. Mary? In his thoughts she was already there.

"I'm in love!" he said aloud to the universe.

The fact awed him. He, Carl Bunbridge, in love!

The next day he told her of the gorgeous view and she promised to go with him the following Saturday. They sat on the piazza and made their plans for the picnic until the shadows settled down. The lake looked like a flat plain of onyx with silver stars pricked on it, and the mountain frowned grim and majestic.

Saturday morning dawned palely beautiful, and directly after breakfast they started on their ten-mile hike.

Across the field towards the woods that skirted the mountain, they walked swiftly. It was already hot and they wished to reach the woods before the sun was high.

"I never had such a wonderful summer before," she said earnestly. "Always before I've had to do these things alone."

The professor murmured something, his heart pounding, as he thought that this was a good chance to broach the subject nearest his heart. But he decided to wait awhile. Later, when they were seated on top of the world, he was determined to ask her to marry him.

All of a sudden, he became aware of an ominous silence. They were about half way up the mountain then. The birds became silent, and the chattering squirrels were still. The wind began to moan and a low rumble presaged a storm.

"We must hurry, Mary, and get into a cave or something!" he shouted. "It'll be dangerous under the trees!" They started running. The wind seemed to mock them and a hoarse murmur set the leaves dancing. The branches whipped their faces, fiendishly bending themselves into distorted shapes.

The rain came suddenly. A tall pine went down directly across their path with a rending of branches. The hissing deluge of water blinded them. He grabbed her by the hand and shouted:

"There's a cave ahead. Careful . . ." An overhanging mass of granite made a shelter. They scrambled, far back in, panting and disheveled.

"Take off your wet dress," he commanded. "I will give you my coat. It's dry inside."

"I don't want it!" protestingly. "I'm all right, Carl!"

The professor, with his repressed inhibitions, was suddenly a dominant male. No longer shy, he became a swashbuckling adventurer ready to fight the whole world . . . and determined on dominating this female.

"Take that soaked rag of a dress off!" he commanded, his voice stern. "Don't be school girlish . . ."

She obeyed. The cave was midnight black. Her face was but an indistinguishable blur. He held his coat towards the blur and, gropingly, she slipped her arms into it. Her fluffy hair that smelled faintly of violets brushed his cheek. He buttoned the coat up with fingers that suddenly trembled, and almost without volition she was in his arms. His kisses were the most satisfactory demonstration that any girl ever had.

"Mary! Mary!" he murmured, his lips against hers. "Precious! I'm crazy . . . just off my head about you! Tell me, darling, can you learn to love me . . . Will you marry me? I know it's an unheard of thing. We never set eyes on each other until a few days ago . . ."

"Never . . . Carl, what are you talking about? Don't you recognize me?"

"Why, of course . . ." Wonderingly. "You're my Mary . . ."

"Yes, but don't you remember me?" she persisted. "I was in your class in botany at Carlisle all last year?"

"You . . . what?"

She nodded, her voice choked with laughter. In the close intimate darkness of the cave, she felt secure and so completely happy. Her arms pulled his head down to her shoulder. She murmured soft things in his unbelieving ear.

"I've been in love with you all the year," accusingly, "and you never knew I was there . . ."

"I can't believe it. But if you say it's so, it's so. But Mary, it's the truth that I never saw you before in all my life until you walked up the path, up the steps, and into my life the day you came. How does it happen, darling? Was I blind?"

"Blind as far as girls were concerned, Carl, how you hated us!"

"Fool . . . idiot!" He pulled her back into his arms once again. Just then the sun peeped in and touched her hair, turning it to a gleam of gold. He pulled her to her feet and they groped out into the suddenly dazzling world. Before the entrance, he took her in his arms and searched her face with new vision.

"Beautiful!" With tender fingers he touched her cheek.

She laughed into his eyes, her face full of mischief.

"Carl, darling, it occurs to me that you are a real caveman with repressed instincts . . ."

"You've said it!" recklessly. "And from now on, I'm going to tell the world!"

Homicidal Death Rate of the Last Ten Years

Death rates per 100,000, compiled by the bureau of the census, show that there has been a slight increase in the homicide death rate for the whole country in the last ten years. The rates from 1921 on are as follows: 1921, 8.5; 1922, 8.3; 1923, 8.1; 1924, 8.4; 1925, 8.6; 1926, 8.8; 1927, 8.8; 1928, 8.5; 1929, 8.5; 1930, 9.0. In the same period the suicide death rate rose from 12.5 to 15.6 and the auto fatality rate from 11.4 to 24.5. The only available homicide or murder statistics by sections of the country are those compiled by Frederick L. Hoffman, who compiled them for the big cities, not for the states. His figures for 1931 show Detroit's rate to be 11.68, comparing with 8.27 for New York, 14.14 for Chicago, 7.17 for Philadelphia, 7.17 for Los Angeles, 13.27 for Cleveland, 15.82 for St. Louis, 10.94 for Baltimore, 3.57 for Boston, 8.62 for Pittsburgh.

PAUL IN MACEDONIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:9-15, 25-31. GOLDEN TEXT—And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house. Acts 16:31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Happy Preacher. JUNIOR TOPIC—Ambassadors for the King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding and Following God's Way. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gospel and World Peace.

I. Forbidden to Preach in Asia (vv. 6-8).

The inclination of the missionaries was to tarry in Asia Minor, preaching the Word, but they were hurried along, contrary to this inclination—a fine example of divine guidance. The Holy Spirit is just as active and faithful in closing doors as in opening them. "The steps as well as the steps of a good man are ordered of the Lord."

II. The Call to Macedonia (vv. 9-12).

The time had now come for the gospel to begin its conquest of another continent. The crossing of the gospel from Asia to Europe determined the entire history of the church. Instead of being an oriental movement, it became mainly occidental.

2. The vision (v. 9). Paul being hemmed in on all sides, experienced a vision of a man of Macedonia pleading for help. This made clear the meaning of the closed doors about him.

2. The advance (vv. 10-12). As soon as the divine way was known they moved forward.

III. The First European Convert (vv. 13-15).

The Jewish element in Philippi was so small that they were unable to afford a synagogue. Therefore, the devout people were accustomed to worship by the river side. To this humble gathering Paul came and preached. Lydia, a business woman of Thyatira, believed his message and was baptized. The steps in her conversion were strikingly typical—

1. Attendance at the place of worship (v. 13). Usually those whom God is calling are found in the place of prayer.

2. Listening to the preaching of the Word of God (vv. 13, 14). The instrument used in the conversion of sinners is God's Word. "Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God" (Rom. 10:17).

3. Her heart was opened by the Lord (v. 14). When the gospel is preached the Spirit of God opens the sinner's heart for the reception of Christ.

4. She was baptized (v. 15). Confession of Christ in baptism is the natural desire of those whose hearts the Lord has opened.

5. Hospitality practiced (v. 15). Those who experience God's saving grace are disposed to have part in his work by aiding his ministers.

IV. Paul and Silas in a Roman Prison (vv. 16-40).

1. The occasion (vv. 16-24). As the missionaries went to the place of prayer they were accosted by a young woman who possessed a spirit of divination. In the name of Jesus Christ, Paul commanded the evil spirit to come out of her. With the casting out of this evil spirit went the supernatural power which was a source of revenue to the syndicate of men who owned her. This so enraged her owners that they brought Paul and Silas before the magistrates on a false charge. Without opportunity to defend themselves Paul and Silas were stripped, beaten by the angry mob, remanded to jail, and were made fast by stocks in the inner prison.

2. Their behavior in jail (v. 25). They prayed and sang hymns to God. In spite of circumstances their hearts went up to God in joyful gratitude.

3. Their deliverance (v. 26). The Lord wrought deliverance by sending a great earthquake which opened the prison doors and removed the chains from off their hands.

4. The conversion of the jailer (vv. 27-34). What he heard of Paul's preaching and through his present experience, made the jailer a humble inquirer after salvation. Paul clearly pointed out the way of salvation.

5. The magistrates humbled (vv. 35-40).

a. The prisoners ordered released (vv. 35, 36). The earthquake produced fear in them, moving them to order the prisoners' release.

b. Paul's refusal to go (v. 3). The ground of his refusal was that their rights as Roman citizens had been violated.

c. Officially brought out of prison (vv. 38, 39). Because these were Roman citizens, the officers removed them with fear for what they had done.

Power

When a man receives the Lord Jesus Christ he is to realize that he also receives the power of God to pass through all his being, and to be exhibited in the world for the glory of God and for the salvation of others.

Never Mind How Many!

CAUTIOUS

"Senator," remarked a confidential friend, "do you propose to run for office again?"

"Of course, I do!" replied Senator Sorghum.

"Don't you think you had better say something about your attitude on political questions?"

"Myes. It might be well to remind people of my existence. But there is too much uncertainty to warrant my taking sides on any topic. For the present I guess I'd better stick to loving my country on general principles."

Getting Posted

WHEN IT HURT

"A friend of mine is the most absent-minded person you ever saw."

"Well, it doesn't hurt him any, does it?"

"It hurt him today when he swallowed a dime and gave a bus conductor a pill for his fare."

Give Him Time

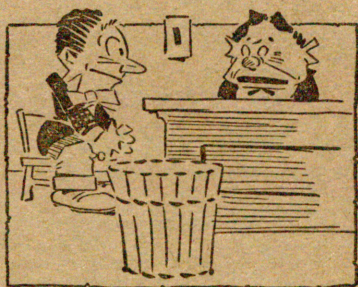

"How old are you, sonny?" asked the inquisitive old man of the little boy on the beach.

"Six," came the brisk reply. "Six," echoed the old man; "and yet you are not so tall as my umbrella!"

The boy drew himself up to his full height.

"How old is your umbrella?" he asked.—Stray Stories.

GATHERING IT IN

Ease Pain Now
In Few Minutes

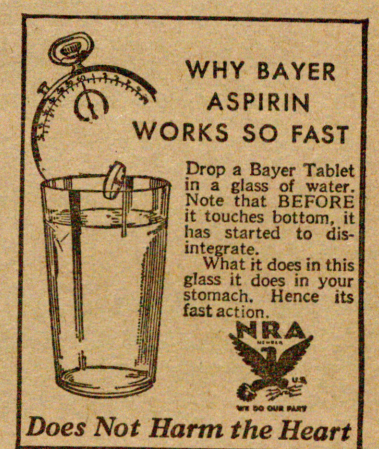

A Discovery That's Bringing Fast Relief To Millions

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia . . . the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHO IS NELLIE BLY?

Lost 30 Pounds of Fat In 3 Months

Dizzy Spells Gone

"To-day I started my 4th jar of Kruschen. First I must tell you I lost 30 lbs. in 3 months. I still wish to lose 25 or 30 lbs. I weighed 184 now I weigh 154. Do I feel good—yes I can say I feel better than I've felt in 30 years. Everything was wrong with me from headaches to backaches, my arms and hands would fall asleep at any time.
They don't anymore. I used to have dizzy spells. Don't any more. Heartburn was so bad I couldn't eat or sleep.
Don't have it any more." Mrs. Arthur Willette, Ferndale, Mich., Aug. 27, 1933.
Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, HARMLESS way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drugstore—the cost for a jar that lasts 4 weeks is not more than 85 cents and if after the first jar you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.
When you take your little daily dose of Kruschen you'll be joyfully free from constipation—you'll gain that glorious Kruschen feeling—no more headaches, acidity or shortness of breath—no more nervousness or sleepless nights.

To Adopt
Equalization Pool

In order that all producers will receive the same basic price for the same percentage of base and equalization pool will be set up in charge of an auditor.

The first duty of the auditor will be to ascertain the amount of milk and cream sales of the entire market. He will then divide this figure by the total established bases of all producers and the result will be the percentage to be applied to each producer's established base. This percentage of base will be paid for at the blended basic price. All milk produced over this percentage of base by any individual producer will be paid for at surplus price. A few examples will be published next week illustrating some important points.

Hold Double Installation At Lincoln Estates

There were a number of distinguished guests present who were called and presented. Mrs. Marie Van Ham, member of the Womens Council of Administration and present President of the Ladies Auxiliary of Cantigny No. 367, Joliet, Ill., Mrs. Harriet Marquard, State
Treasurer of the Department Ladies Auxiliary; Mrs. Rae Menard, President, South Park Post Auxiliary and Department officer; and others.

Among the distinguished gentlemen present were: The Judge Advocate General, Comrade Henry Mar-quard; Wm. Bollig, Member Council of Administration; Louis Leinbacher, present Post Commander, Cantigny Post No. 367, V. F. W.; and many others.

Short addresses were given by all the distinguished guests and the newly obligated Honorary Members of the Post.

Mr. Albert Krusemark expressed surprise to find such a great assemblage as had come to pay honor to the newly elected Comrades and Ladies, and expressed his profound pleasure in having bestowed upon him this honor of becoming a member of Wm. Martin Post and the opportunity of serving not only the comrades of our Post but all ex-service men.

Dr. Adolph Faller was equally eloquent in the expression of his feelings upon having this honor bestowed upon him. Comrade Marquard in no mistakin terms denounced the suffering and hazard its policies had wrought among the ranks of the sick and destitute ex-service men, advocating hospitalization for all ex-service men, and a pension for all deceased ex-service mens' widows and children. He stated that the V. F. W. has stood at all times and would continue to stand and fight for the rights of the ex-service man. Eulogizing Commander John R. Jones on his exemplary service as commander of the Post he bestowed upon Commander
Jones the Past Commanders Badge.

Refreshments were then served by the Ladies Auxiliary and the Post after which there was dancing. Music was furnished by Comrade Elphick and his orchestra. If you want to be happy join the ranks of the V. F. W. of Lincoln Estates.

MOKENA

The Methodist Ladies Aid Society will present two, one-act plays in the school auditorium next Thursday Nov. 16 at 7:45 p. m. The plays are entitled, "The Ministers New Car," and "Every Husband."

Mokena has a Junior Volunteer Fire Department. Mr. Aug. Hentsch is the Fire Chief, Bobby Benson is his assistant and Jack Warning is Clerk. The other members are: Kenneth Warning, Bud Warning, Roy Homerding, Bob Krapp, John Miller,
Ed. Lehnert, Geo. Hentsch, Gordon
Benson, Kurt Hellmuth, Geo. Me-garrey, Eddie Wachter and Arthur Hurley. They will have a meeting
Saturday and will have a bonfire.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cooper have moved to the home of the former's mother, occupying the upper floor.

NOTICE
The Mokena P. -T. A. card party which was to have been given Nov.
17 has been postponed to some future date.

Mrs. L. G. Bruder and Mr. Leon Tonn will take part in a community concert and musicale in the Lockport Methodist church Sunday evening Nov. 12. Mrs. Bruder will give a reading and Mr. Tonn will sing.

Mr. and Mrs. Reithers, the latter a sister of Mrs. Lizzie Moriarty, left Mokena Monday morning for Texas by motor where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mattes left last Wednesday by motor for Mauston to take the latter's mother, who has been visiting with her daughters, home.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Klose Jr., has moved to Alabama.

MOKENA GARDEN CLUB NEWS AND NOTES

The Mokena Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. John Balaz, Tuesday Nov. 7. Pres. Mrs. Tooley presiding. An interesting program was as follows: Mrs. Arthur Schoop read an article on Peat. Mrs. Wm. Lowe, an article on November suggestions for gardeners. A bug contest prepared by the program committee was enjoyed and Mrs. Shoop was awarded the prize.

Much time is being spent this coming week in street tree planting, the trees being donated by the Garden Club.

The Club members voted to sponsor a masquerade at St. Mary's hall Saturday Dec. 9. Prizes will be awarded. Watch for further news of this event.

4-H CLUB HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

The Frankfort - New Lenox 4H
Club held its monthly meeting November 7th, in the home of Edward and Wilbert Lauffer. The business session was led by the President, Lewie Ebert, who also gave a talk on "starting a calf on feed."

The main subject of the members was that of securing baby beef calves for the coming year.

After the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Louis Lauffer.

The next meeting is to be held December 12, in the home of Howard and Norman Strassenburg if the condition of Mrs. Strassenburg permits.

ORLAND PARK

Dr. W. R. Schussler and a number of other Orand Park men attended the meeting of the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce held at Manhattan Monday night in connection with the movement on foot to make the building of the Southwest Highway a Federal project.

The Orland Park fire department met Monday night. At the close of the meeting, the fire truck pulled up in front of the John Burkhardt place and the newly weds, Mr. and Mrs.
Lawrence Burkhardt were taken for a fast ride with the firemen. Mr.
Burkhardt is a member of the Orland Fire Department. At the end of the trip, the guests all enjoyed eats and drinks at the Burkhardt home.

The Orland Park Woman's Club held a very interesting meeting last Thursday in the club rooms over the Creer store. A speaker from Chicago gave a very interesting talk. The program was greatly enjoyed.

The supper given by the Christ
Lutheran church held last Thursday was well attended and a neat sum was realized for the benefit of the church.

Mayor Wm. Kollmann leaves the latter part of this week for a trip to Iowa to shoot pheasants.

The condition of P. B. Hostert remains very critical.

Mr. Eric Foslund of Chicago is a guest of his daughter, Mrs. Sherman Knox and family.

The Orland Park R. N. A., will hold a poultry and bunco party at the Legion hall, Nov. 16.

ORLAND PARK SCHOOL NEWS
The Achievement Club will hold their annual evening meeting, November 20th.
